DETAILED ACTION

Response to Appeal Brief

1. In view of the Appeal Brief filed on 15 November 2004, PROSECUTION IS HEREBY REOPENED. A new ground of rejection is set forth below.

To avoid abandonment of the application, appellant must exercise one of the following two options:

- (1) file a reply under 37 CFR 1.111 (if this Office action is non-final) or a reply under 37 CFR 1.113 (if this Office action is final); or,
 - (2) request reinstatement of the appeal.

If reinstatement of the appeal is requested, such request must be accompanied by a supplemental appeal brief, but no new amendments, affidavits (37 CFR 1.130, 1.131 or 1.132) or other evidence are permitted. See 37 CFR 1.193(b)(2).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless -

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claim 3 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Russo (US006025868A).

Russo discloses a stored program pay-per-play system where a controller or "entertainment device" scans or "monitors" program schedules that is broadcasted and selects programs or "for-demand movie data" to record based on viewer/listener preferences (See column 3 lines 5-25 and column 4 line 20). Furthermore, the controller disclosed by Russo also provides conventional video program service or "conventional entertainment" (See column 3 lines 45-55). The controller receives the programs and stores them on a storage unit (See Fig. 2 element 110 and column 7 lines 43-53). The controller provides a list or "selection of choices" to the user of the stored titles or "stored for-demand movie data", where the user can select a stored title or "designating an entertainment choice" to be viewed or played or "designated entertainment choice to provide entertainment to the user" (See column 10 line 58 – column 11 line 5). Furthermore, Russo monitors the broadcast channels for the "for-demand movie data" and can record the desired programs automatically without the user or "monitors the channels as a background function undetectable by the user" (See column 8 line 64 column 9 line 20 and column 9 line 48 - column 10 line 19).

Response to Arguments

3. Applicant's arguments with respect to the Blackketter reference have been considered but are most in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

It is noted that the withdrawal of the 35 U.S.C. 103(a) rejection on claim 3 was not because the rejection was in error. In retrospect, the Russo reference contains all the limitations recited in claim 3.

Art Unit: 2616

Applicant argues that Russo does not disclose a system that can monitor and store movie data as a background function not apparent to the user. However, upon further review, Russo discloses that the system can monitor broadcasts for supplemental information/future schedules that is used to locate and record desired programs automatically and unattended (See column 8 line 64 – column 9 line 20 and column 9 line 48 – column 10 line 19). Therefore, the user is not aware of all the processing that occurs within the system.

Applicant further argues that Russo does not teach recording movies as a background function not apparent to the user. However, as discussed above, Russo does disclose a system that provides automatic and unattended recording where the user is not aware of all the processing that occurs within the system. Furthermore, it is noted that the feature of recording movies as a background function not apparent to the user is not recited in the claims. Applicant is reminded that although the claims are interpreted in light of the specification, limitations from the specification are not read into the claims. See In re Van Geuns, 988 F.2d 1181, 26 USPQ2d 1057 (Fed. Cir. 1993).

Conclusion

4. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
